Truck Driver Is 'Acquitted in Woman's Death'

ARKADELPHIA (AP) — A truck driver, who testified a woman hitchhiker shot herself after twice refusing his invitation to "sit close to me," was acquitted of her death here yesterday.

The defendant was David Geiger, 43, of Somerville, S. C., whom the trial jury took only 33 minutes to exonerate.

The dead woman was Mrs. Mildred Holden of Silsbee, Tex., whose body, a bullet wound in the head, was found beside a highway near here last December.

Geiger, the final witness in his trial for first degree murder, testified that he glanced in Mrs. Holden's direction as she sat beside him in the cab of his moving truck and saw her holding his pistol to her head.

"My God, woman don't do that," he said he shouted.

Mrs. Holden pulled the trigger, handed him the pistol and toppled over, dead, Geiger said.

Geiger, who said he carried the pistol in the cab, testified he stopped the truck and dragged the woman's body down an embankment, where he left it.

Geiger, who said he carried the woman near Marshall, Tex.

He said he drove to Little Rock, St. Louis, Toledo and Detroit before returning to Summerville, where he was arrested.

Police Find Death House — Three Bodies

HASTINGS — ON — HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — Police broke into a comfortable dwelling here last night and found a house of death.

There were three bodies — of a man, his wife and his wife's mother. A cocker spaniel lay sprawled lifeless on the living room floor. At least 50 tropical birds were dead in their cages.

Hastings Police Chief Joseph Trojak said Mrs. Andrea Kaufman, 47, in apparently committing suicide, had taken with her to their deaths her husband Frank 50, and her mother Mrs. Anna Helges, 70.

Police entered the seven-room home at the urging of a neighbor, who said the family had not been seen for more than a week. From mail piled up on the porch, authorities believe the deaths occurred about April 24.

Trojask said the body of Mrs. Kaufman, clad in nightgown and robe, was found in the front seat of the family car in the attached garage. The auto's ignition key was turned on. The gas tank was empty. Canvas had been stuffed into the cracks of the garage door. Carbon monoxide fumes had filtered through the entire house, killing every living thing, Trojak said.

The body of Kaufman, a bakery supply salesman, lay in his bedroom. His mother-in-law's body lay in the din other room. Both were in night clothes.

Police were told that Mrs. Kaufman had been despondent after a serious operation about a month ago. No note was found.

New Mechanical Brain Is Shown

By ROBERT EUNSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man has shown me a machine with an electronic brain capable of dividing a six-digit number by a number with five digits in two thousandths of a second.

This mathematical magnificence is overwhelming, especially to a person who came recently from the Orient where most of the arithmetic is done on an ancient instrument known as the abacus.

Nothing wrong with the abacus, mind you, but when you see a machine that can do division in two thousandths of a second, you begin to feel that gadget which served your old friends in Japan and China so many centuries must be getting out of date.

This electronic data processing machine center here can do multiplication in 800 millionths of a second, addition and subtraction in 120 millionths of a second, and figure out your income tax, with deductions, while you are reaching for the aspirin.

But the engineers at IBM didn't quit when they mastered mathematics.

They also invented a machine called the IBM Giant Brain 705 which can memorize every word in "Gone With the Wind" in three minutes. It can turn around and repeat it on magnetic tape in another three.

Morocco Fight Leaves 40 Persons Dead

MARRAKECH, Morocco (AP) — Troops in full battle dress today guarded this city in the Atlas foothills where 40 persons died in a vicious bloodbath directed at friends of the late Thamiel Glaoui.

A tight curfew appeared to have curbed the mob fury against supporters of the Glaoui, pro-French pasha of Marrakech who died in January of cancer.

The Glaoui, an old Berber chieftain, was a long-time backer of French rule in Morocco. He became a special target of hatred for nationalists when he took the lead in the ouster of Sultan Mohammed V. Youssef. After nationalist violence forced France to return the Sultan to power, a few months before his death, the Glaoui begged French forgiveness and pledged allegiance to the French king's years of pro-French activity were not forgotten.

Mobs took to the streets two days ago and again yesterday, flushing supporters of the Glaoui from their homes and hacking and burning them. No attempts against the city's 15,000 European residents were reported, however.

The known dead included several former kings or chiefs, a former bodyguard of the Glaoui, a Moslem religious leader and several lesser tribal figures.

Some of the old pasha's followers were reported to have killed five of the mob in gun battles.

Ben Youssef took strong measures to restore order, dispatching troop reinforcements to the scene and ordering security forces to fire on the rioters if necessary.

Pranks Blamed for School Trouble

DENVER (AP) — A rash of telephone bomb threats spread through Denver public schools yesterday. Police blamed juvenile pranksters hoping to gain a holiday.

Supt. Kenneth E. Oberholtzer said, however: "Even if it is a prank call, we can't take any chances with the lives of the children."

The threats apparently were touched off by a telephone call which led to evacuation of East High School's 2,500 students Wednesday.

Only one of the six calls yesterday had its desired effect. Skinner Junior High School's 1,200 students were dismissed after a caller warned at 10:30 a. m. that a bomb would go off at 12:05 p. m.

NEW YORK (AP) — There are nearly eight million Americans in the stock market now.

A stockholder is known as "a partner in industry," and when you meet a guy who owns a share in the same company you do, you give him the greeting cry of the Old West, "Howdy, partner."

The New York Stock Exchange hopefully predicts that eventually there will be between 40 and 50 million stockholders in this country.

The prediction may well come true. Already buying stock is important for other reasons than possible financial gain. It's becoming a matter of social prestige.

In some circles if you don't own at least a few shares of stock you're regarded as one of civilization's wallflowers. They think maybe you still ride to work on a bicycle and that your idea of fun is to read the poems of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow aloud in mixed company.

The average business office today—from boss to shipping clerk—has more stock market interest than it did horse players 10 years ago.

They break down into several common types, and you probably can recognize some of the following in your own office:

The wandering investor — Like an impatient prospector, he always looking for gold over the next hill. Today he buys Du Pont, tomorrow he sells and goes in for General Motors, the next day he is browsing in A. T. & T.

Hundreds to See Cowboy Roy Rogers

More of the same is expected about 5:00 p. m. today when Roy Rogers and party arrive at Fulton, one of a series of stops on a 9-month tour.

The cowboy actor landed near New Boston, Texas yesterday and was nearly mobbed by some 3,000 screaming and near frantic fans and Boy Scouts. Boat trouble delayed the party. Rogers' boat hit an object in the river, damaging the bottom which had to be repaired. The motor on another hit a sandbar and had to be overhauled. Thus the party was several hours late.

A big Camp-O-Rite is planned tonight by Boy Scouts of the area. A camp site has been set up across the river from Fulton and no automobiles will be allowed in the area.

Woman Killed by a 'Bush-Hog'

HOT SPRINGS (AP) — A West Memphis woman was cut to pieces today when she fell into the whirling blades of a tractor-towed bush-hog.

Sheriff Leonard R. Ellis said the victim, Mrs. Mary Ruth Bettis, 33, was driving the tractor when the machine apparently stuck a stump, throwing the woman into the blades. She died instantly.

A bush-hog is a machine used in clearing fields.

Mrs. Bettis and her husband, Marvin Bettis, were clearing a farm they recently purchased west of here, the sheriff said. Bettis was working in a nearby field when he heard the tractor stop.

On investigation, he found his wife.

Mrs. Bettis, a native of Hot Springs, and her husband had been living at West Memphis while getting the farm ready for use.

She was the mother of two teen-aged boys.

Praise, Honor Come to All of the Maids

Among the many organizations at the Hope High School there is a group of unusually talented young ladies known as the Melody Maids. This club was organized in the summer of 1950 by Mrs. B. C. Hyatt and Mrs. Oliver Adams. The girls who were graduating from the three elementary schools met weekly through the summer for singing and recreation. During the school term they meet once a month.

For their four years in high school the Melody Maids have consistently won such honors as campus queen, home coming queen, school beauty, Quill and Scroll.

The following are members of the National Honor Society: Margaret Archer, Billie Dawn Franks, Barbara Guthrie, Ginny Herndon, Mary Rains Lewis, Carolyn Lewallen, Janet McKenzie, Marian McQueen, Lenora Messer, Kay Ray, and Irene Thornton. Sue Cook, Marcia Bowden, and Toni Thompson of the Junior Class have recently been elected to this society.

Last year Mary Rains Lewis, Carolyn Lewallen and Janet McKenzie were selected to represent the school at Girls' State.

Serving as editor of the Hope Hi-Lights this year is Billie Dawn Franks, while Margaret Archer is president of the Library Club, Ginny Herndon heads the Future Nurses and Irene Thornton is president of the Future Homemakers. Judy Watkins, who served as page at the state convention of the D. A. R., was elected Miss Hope High and Barbara Guthrie was Miss Football. JoBeth Rettig and Janet McKenzie were majorettes in the Hope High School Band.

Carolyn Lewallen won a Merit Award in the Lion Oil Scholarship Contest in the Fall.

At the Sixth Annual Music Festival last year Carolyn Story and Ann Adams were presented scholarships to the Music Workshop at Inspiration Point which they attended last summer. Carolyn had also added to her scholarships in piano and voice at Henderson State Teachers College next year and won in both.

Janet McKenzie has been granted a scholarship for four years at Southwestern University in Memphis, Tenn. She was one of eight winners among a large number of applicants.

The close of school will find these students winning still more honors and awards. But they have not spent all their time in studies. They have found time to contribute to many worthy local drives and causes. The Lions' Radio Auction, the Kiwanis Minstrel, the Rotary Club, Garden Clubs, and the Churches have called upon them time and again for assistance in their programs.

Last fall they sponsored a series of art films and brought to our city such pictures as "Interrupted Melody," "Julius Caesar," and "Aida."

As a contribution to National Music Week the graduating members of the club will be presented in a spring recital on Sunday afternoon, May 6 at 3 o'clock in the Hope High School Auditorium. The program will feature piano solos, and ensembles, vocal solos, a marimba duet and songs by the entire group. The public is cordially invited to attend this program.

Ministers Agree New Russian Face Dangerous

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

PARIS (AP) — NATO's foreign ministers agreed today the Western world is facing a new and dangerously agile Soviet foreign policy based on economic and cultural penetration.

Reliable sources disclosed the Ministerial Council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization reached this conclusion after a full two hours in NATO headquarters.

The discussion opened with a detailed report on the recent visit to Britain of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev.

Ministers gave their interpretation of Russian moves and advice on how the West must meet the Kremlin's new look. NATO officials maintained silence on the ministerial appraisal of Russia's actions and Western reaction to them.

Expansion of the 15-nation alliance into political and economic fields is a topic in the sessions, which will continue through tomorrow. It appeared final decisions on such proposals will be postponed at least until December.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, two of the leading council members, were reported to have agreed that all proposals for broadening NATO should be referred to a special committee of foreign ministers, probably five in number. The committee would report to the next full council session—in December.

Dulles was said to be ready to serve on the committee, if asked. NATO was formed as a military bulwark when there were active fears of direct Soviet aggression against Western Europe. Now some Western officials believe it must be reshaped to meet Russia's new "trade and aid" offensive in other parts of the world.

Dulles has said the organization must be made into "something more than a military alliance."

Jordan River Key to Middle East Peace

By STAN SWINTON
ROME (AP) — U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld flew from Rome today amid signs the "unconditional" Arab-Israeli ceasefire pledges he announced are binding only as long as Israel leaves the Jordan River alone.

The U. N. official appeared in high spirits after almost a month of discussions with Arab and Israeli leaders.

Newsman immediately pressed him about a report from Beirut indicating Lebanon had agreed to a ceasefire only so long as Israel did not resume diversion of the Jordan River, a power-irrigation project dormant for 2 1/2 years.

The Israelis have threatened to start the Jordan also had made their ceasefire promises conditional on no Israel tampering with the Jordan.

A spokesman for Hammarskjöld said the secretary would put out a full text of the ceasefire agreements within the next two days.

"They will answer that question by themselves," he said. "We cannot say anything more now."

Reporter Describes Rocket Flight

By SANKY TRIMBL

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) — How does it feel to have a three-quarter-ton rocket, loaded with high explosive propellants, plunging downward from 18,000 feet apparently pointed right down your throat?

Terrific.

It was a case of no place to go and not time enough to get there anyway.

It happened to a group at White Sands Proving Ground in southern New Mexico earlier this week. The occasion was the belated firing of the new Navy Aerobee-2, a new research vehicle designed to set a new altitude record for single-stage rockets and connected with the U. S. earth satellite program.

The weather was perfect Wednesday afternoon.

At X-minus-4, meaning four minutes until time for the rocket to blast off, the range-loud-speaker announced there was a "possible error in weather calculations," and a hold order was placed on the operation. It was called off a few minutes later and the reverse countdown—10 seconds, 9 seconds, 8 seconds—began.

Angry President Warns All Influence-Peddlers to Steer Clear of Him

Defrauding U. S. on Big Scale, McClellan Finds

By HERBERT FOSTER

WASHINGTON, (D-AP) — said today his Senate subcommittee's investigation of military uniform purchases has "run into a group that has been defrauding the government on quite a large scale."

"We've run into a group that has been defrauding the government on quite a large scale and for quite a long time," McClellan said. "I'm hopeful we can expose it and break it up."

He did not identify persons in the group which he mentioned. McClellan made the statement to newsmen after the investigating subcommittee recessed its inquiry until sometime next week, when it plans to question government officials.

The Justice Department refused to confirm or deny reports that it ordered its attorneys to deal cautiously with Vice President Richard M. Nixon's 1952 campaign manager, Murray M. Chotiner.

Chotiner testified yesterday he spoke with Justice Department officials about the affairs of two blacklisted uniform makers who were his clients.

McClellan told newsmen he had reliable information that such an order was issued. He said he would ask the Justice Department for a copy.

President Eisenhower told his news conference that, as far as he was familiar with the Chotiner case, he did not think that Chotiner had acted improperly in contacting government officials on cases involving his clients.

Chotiner had told McClellan's subcommittee yesterday that, in representing clients with federal agencies and at the White House, he had never traded on Nixon's influence.

Mr. Eisenhower told reporters he was not conversant with all of Chotiner's testimony. But he said he wanted reporters to know that early in his administration he specially ordered that (1) any person having business with the government should be treated with courtesy and (2) if any person before claimed political influence or privilege because he is a friend of the President or someone in his official family, that person is to be thrown out instantly.

Satellite to Circle Earth Two Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's first space satellite probably will circle the earth for two weeks—and maybe you can see it if you can spot a golf ball 30,000 feet up in the air.

Dr. John P. Hagen says the time for seeing the satellite will be limited to about an hour before sunrise and another hour after sunset — when the earth is dark and the upper sky still sun-bathed.

"At these times the satellite will be limited to about an hour before sunrise and another hour after sunset — When the earth is dark and the upper sky still sun-bathed."

"At these times the satellite will be visible, but I believe you will need field glasses in order to see it," he added.

No Jurisdiction Over Civil Suit, U. S. Court Rules

A $57,691.55 civil suit which named as defendants, W. W. White of Hope, his wife, Lawrence Banks of Fordyce, W. L. White and John A. Wallace, has been dismissed in Arkansas Federal Court, W. S. Atkins, attorney for the defendants said here today.

The suit was brought by John Vesey, trustee for the Hope Flooring and Lumber Co., adjudged bankrupt in May 1953.

The defendants filed a motion asking dismissal on the question of jurisdiction. The court ruled in favor of the defendants.

Bonds Actually Sold by W. R. Stephens Co.

LITTLE ROCK May 3 (Special) — Two college revenue bond issues, each with a $30,000 par value, which on April 23 were tendered and accepted as investments for the Teacher Retirement System by the First National Bank of Hope, were actually sold by W. R. Stephens Investment Co., Little Rock.

When the Retirement System vouchered payments for these securities May 2, the Stephens firm was named payee for the warrants covering the $59,940 principal payments and $275 accrued interest.

The bond issues, one sold April 1, 1954, by Arkansas Polytechnic College, and one sold June 1, 1954, by Arkansas State College, both were offered to the Retirement System for slightly under par.

The Stephens company, a prominent contender in the past when the TRS has asked for investment tenders, did not appear openly in the latest tender when the System purchased securities aggregating $1,416,000 par value.

The Retirement System Board of Trustees adopted a resolution at the same meeting to the effect that it would make no further investments in the state-supported college revenue bonds until such time as the legislature places them under guarantee similar to that backing school district bonds. State aid can legally be withheld from school districts threatening to default on their indebtedness.

Chotiner testified yesterday before the Senate investigations subcommittee that in representing clients with federal agencies, he had never traded on Nixon's influence.

The President said that in the Chotiner case—as far as he was familiar with it—he had no reason to believe that either of them was involved in any specific offense.

1. Any person having business with the government should be treated with courtesy. The President said he would not stand in the way of any person's business with the government on the part of any public official.

2. If anyone ever claimed political influence or privilege because he is a friend of the president or someone in his official family, he should be thrown out instantly.

Says Officials Under Orders of Long Standing

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower angrily warned influence-peddlers today to steer clear of his administration.

He said government officials are under long-standing orders from him to throw out of their offices instantly anybody who tries to claim political influence or privilege in dealings with the government.

The president also served notice at his news conference that if anyone comes to his attention that anyone within his administration is trying to exercise influence, such a person will be fired immediately.

Mr. Eisenhower's spirited denunciation of persons claiming influence in dealing with units of his administration was provoked by questions in a Murray Chotiner, Chotiner was 1952 campaign manager for Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Chotiner testified yesterday before the Senate investigations subcommittee that in representing clients with federal agencies, he had never traded on Nixon's influence.

Polio Cases Far Below '55 Total

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seventy-four new cases of polio were reported last week, barely more than half the 146 in the corresponding 1955 week.

A Public Health Service spokesman said, however, that "it is too early" to tell what will happen later.

He pointed out that there were 74 cases in the corresponding week in 1952 but high incidence in July, August and September that year gave 1952 the record high of some 57,000 cases.

Yesterday Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele and Dr. Alexander D. Langmuir, chief of the service's epidemiological branch at Atlanta, both expressed belief the rise in cases this year would be slower than in the past.

"I'll be very interested in what happens in the next four weeks," Dr. Langmuir said. "The incidence shouldn't go up as fast as in recent years."

Dr. Scheele said that even though "some very strange things show up in the way polio occurs each year" the service "hopes this year we will have the largest reduction of cases we've ever had for a year."

Both Scheele and Langmuir said they saw nothing to worry about in report of a higher percentage of paralytic cases during the first three months of 1956.

Today's weekly report showed that there had been 1,370 polio cases reported in 1956 up through April 28, compared with 1,450 a year ago.

There had been 751 paralytic cases, compared with 629; 269 non paralytic compared with 392; and 250 unspecified as compared with 423.

THE LONG BODY

CHAPTER XXIII

Basil was silent when she finished. She waited a moment then went on. "You see it's utterly inexplicable. Did anyone have a motive for killing John? Cristina had no motive for trying to kill Malcolm or me. No one but I had a motive for killing Cristina and I didn't do it."

"Are you sure?" He looked at her keenly. "You were in the sleepwalking state you say, so you can't be absolutely certain what you did."

She looked at him desolately. "Do you think I did it?"
"No, at the moment I'm inclined to gamble that you didn't. Never mind the reasons now."

She let her breath out in a deep sigh.

"There are several interesting points in what you have told me," he continued. "Think about them for a moment: Cristina's statement that her mother was Mexican. Doesn't that mean anything to you? The odd fragrance you noticed first on the green envelope and later on Cristina herself. That should suggest something, too. And the fact that the green envelope itself disappeared afterward. What was there about the envelope itself that had to be suppressed? Or the date? In either case why wasn't it suppressed in the first place when its contents were stolen? I happen to know that the police did not find your handbag at the scene of the crime and perhaps that is the most significant thing of all. That and the fact that the crime took place the night after the accident."

"None of these things mean anything to me," said Alice.
"Who could have known if your intention to kill her?"

She told him. "But it's monstrous to think that Byrd or Betsy or Jean or . . . my own son could have planned to kill Cristina in such a way that I would be arrested for the crime."

Basil spoke, seeming to change the subject. "When a crime is committed, there are two elements—what I call the 'over-story' and the 'under-story.' They flow side by side, matching each other in each twist and turn with perfect symmetry and yet they are entirely different. What we see first is the over-story—the surface events with their shallow interpretations of motive and character, the appearance that always masks reality. A case can be planned to kill by revealing the under-story only by revealing the hidden. It consists of exactly the same events with the added depth and volume given them by true motive and real character. With those additions the story assumes an entirely different shape and color. You have told me the over-story. We can't begin to see the whole shape of the under-story in your narrative. Here and there we get tantalizing glimpses of its content and quality. Only one part of the under-story stands out clearly: your motive for killing Cristina at exactly the time and place she was killed. That was inevitable as an act of tragedy. Everything that happened before led up to it."

Alice listened with parted lips. "And who . . . ?"

He looked at her with a compassion that frightened her. "I am not surprised that, after all this, you had a sudden feeling you did not really know these four people who are all so dear to you and that their very faces suddenly appeared to you as enigmatic masks. Did you ever hear of the 'long body'?"

She shook her head.
"It's a term borrowed from Hindu mystical philosophy, the lingua sharira, which really expressed one of the concepts of depth psychology. To us the word 'body' means a solid with three dimensions—length, breadth and depth; but doesn't man's nature have a fourth dimension called time? Dimension is simply direction. If anybody asks why we are never aware of movement in a fourth direction, ask him what growth is."

"Ordinarily we think of growth as changes the body makes in itself. But the Hindu think of the body as a whole including infancy, middle age and old age—a whole that stands still while the motion of time reveals various aspects of that whole which is called the long body—the body that is long in time, stretching all the way from birth to death."

"In other words, the events in a man's life from birth to death constitute his real body which appears to us in cross sections from moment to moment, but which is really one great whole in eternity with a shape of its own—a part of landscape that includes all the developments and events in his life."

"Then the old argument about whether people, if they survived death, would be young or old in eternity becomes an absurdity," said Alice.

"Obviously, since youth and age are equally and simultaneously part of your whole nature in eternity."

"For a man's past and future are not just things that happen to him. They are as much a part of him as the shape of his face or the color of his eyes. That's why a man's life always has a consistent pattern and depth psychologists find that each of us throughout life tend to repeat the same mistakes over and over again. Our mistakes are a part of us. Without them we would be different people."

"When you seek a murderer among people who are superficially incapable of crime, the answer must lie in the long body of one of those people—the true shape of a character as it is revealed over a long period of time."

DOROTHY DIX

Price Tag on Affection Not Much Hope Here!

Dear Dorothy Dix: My mother-in-law is a widow, very well off, with a large house in the country. She is a very generous woman. She practically clothes her grandchildren. She buys expensive gifts for her son and daughters, but what a price we must pay!

We are constantly reminded of her gifts, and it we don't express appreciation with every breath she is hurt. Every time we dress a child in clothes bestowed by grandma, we must say, "Wasn't it nice of grandma to buy this for you?" We are also expected to spend every week end at her home.

"We've lost all our friends through these time-consuming visits and I arrive back in town each Sunday night, exhausted and nervous. I like my mother-in-law but wish she wouldn't make so many demands on us, and her own daughters feel the same way."

Another thing, our two children are going to grow up rotten spoiled if they'd exposed much longer to the week-end pampering.

KARIN
Dear Karin: Grandmother's generosity bears a price tag as evident as any that appeared on the little coats and dresses she buys. If only some kind fairy would creep up behind her and whisper that she'd get more love and devotion from her family by trying less.

The solution to the problem depends more on grandma than on her children. If her interests were diverted elsewhere, she'd let up on the family. Why not put your heads together and think of something that would interest her?

The week-end problem will solve itself, in time. Grandmother will soon find the small fry too numerous to handle, must less spoil. When her growing family turns the homestead into bedlam, she'll be mighty glad to cry "uncle."

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm going with a married man who is separated, but not divorced. We have done nothing wrong and go out quite openly. We smoke and drink, attend sports events together and are very congenial.

Since his wife won't give him a divorce yet, he wants to give me a ring and consider ourselves en-he can actually invest.

The big operator — this fellow hints mysteriously of his tremendous ventures. But at least once a week he borrows lunch money from you, explaining, "I'm short of ready cash—up to the hilt in Consolidated Moonbeams."

The name-dropper—in the old days he used to brag he once had shaken hands with Marilyn Monroe at a charity ball. Now he brags "Guess who I sat next to on the subway this morning—the chairman of the board of Cosmic Glue, Inc."

The in-and-out-er—this is the office gambler. He puts his whole wad on International Popcorn, Ltd. When it fails after a week to declare a 50 per cent dividend, he pulls out his money, grumbling, "I want some real action. I can do better on the ponies."

The insider—"I've got a tip from my cousin who works for Laminated Steel that their stock will go up 10 points day after tomorrow," he whispers to everyone who will listen. "Better get in today!"
Two days later Laminated Steel falls four points, and the insider becomes an outsider to everyone in the office who acted on his tip.

The hermit crab—He holds his stock close to his chest, won't talk about the market at all. He even beds in a separate room from his wife for fear that during his sleep he will give away his investing secrets.

The dreamer—He puts his last $500 in Skyblue Uranium Unlimited (two shares for a penny) and goes around the office in a daze, murmuring, "one million . . . two million . . . three million . . ."

The harlot investor—He consults astrology charts, comic books and ouija boards. If he sees an old lady feeding crumbs to pigeons in the street, he asks her: "What would you do if you were me? Last week I bought 10 shares of Universal Marmalade at 32½ and now it's down to 33½. Should I stay in or get out?"

Of course, there is the ordinary investor, too, the fellow who puts the money he can afford into the best stocks he can find and then sensibly sits back and waits for his investment to mature.

But you don't hear much from him. He is merely looking for more bread on earth—not pie in the sky.

Says Officials

These orders had been violated. Other highlights in Mr. Eisenhower's meeting with reporters, which had been postponed from Wednesday:

1. The chief executive said it was disappointing that 37 B-52 intercontinental bombers had to be rejected by the Air Force because of mechanical defect. But he said it was not proper to use the strength of the Air Force as a single measuring standard against the air power of Russia. He pointed out that the United States has the most powerful Navy in the world and its power currently features naval air strength which has not yet been outlined for the Senate armed forces subcommittee on air power.

2. Regarding his physical ability to continue in the presidency, he said his doctors told him that he could continue on his present schedule indefinitely. He said that if he is re-elected, he plans to resume some of the ceremonial social duties which he dropped after his heart attack.

3. Stormily he rejected the Democratic charge that he was degenerating his powers. He said no President can delegate constitutional authority and he never had any intention of doing so. Mr. Eisenhower said someone else in his administration might make a decision, but he is the one who has to take the final responsibility.

4. He advised caution in congressional consideration of any constitutional amendment for a 25 per cent limit on income taxes. Mr. Eisenhower said the common sense of America ought to find some proper limitation on taxes to avoid concentration of tax authority in federal hands to the detriment of state and local government.

Russian Jets Outnumber Those of U. S.

By CHARLES CONDRY

WASHINGTON (UP) — Russia has more than 100 intercontinental jet bombers compared with America's 76 and it produced them in much less time, authoritative military information showed today.

A comparison of production progress was made possible when the Pentagon broke a strict rule ments. But he was concerned about what a constitutional limitation might do to federal finances in event of a national emergency.

5. He did not like the form of the new farm bill passed yesterday by the House, but said he would have to base his final judgment on the measure as it leaves Congress after final passage. The President said he had not studied the new bill in detail but he understood it was poor legislation administratively, and would require Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson to add substantially to the size of his department.

and allowed Gen. Curtis E. LeMay to tell Senate investigators in public how many B-52 hydrogen bomber the Air Force has. The United Press obtained the Atomic Energy Commission's estimate of Russian production from competent sources.

Under usual security producers, military services do not reveal their exact numbers of planes of a given model. And regulations bar contractors from disclosing "production schedules . . . or rates of delivery."

But Strategic Air Command LeMay yesterday gave the Senate Armed Services subcommittee on air power complete details on B-52 production and monthly delivery rates. The giant, 650-mile-an-hour bomber has become a focal point in the controversy over relative Russian and American air strength. Russia's B-52s, of which more than 100 have been built, is rated a comparable bomber.

Slaughter Drives in Key Run

NEW YORK (AP)—Life certainly isn't starting at 40 for Enos Slaughter, but it shows no signs of ending either.

The amazing Kansas City outfielder still is showing players half his age how to stay in condition.

"It's my legs that keep me going," he said today at Yankee Stadium before the New York Yankees-A's game. "I was born in farm country and began hunting when I was 10. Chasing those bound dogs is great for your legs."

If you think Slaughter might be approaching the end of the line, take a look at yesterday's Yankees 8-7 victory over the Yanks. He hit two doubles (baiting average .321). The first knocked out Yank starter Don Larsen and the second started the ninth-inning drive that won the game. He scored the winning run a few minutes later.

"I've got plenty of baseball left in me," he said with a grin. "I played 118 games last year and 10 of our first 11 this year, so I'm a long way from the end of the line. I play whenever I'm asked."

Slaughter has been around the majors 18 years, which makes him second in seniority only to Bob Feller, Cleveland pitcher.

LITTLE EARLY WISCONSIN DELLS, Wis. (UP)—The swallows of the dell, traditional harbingers of a warm, early spring, returned here two days early.

When they arrived Wisconsin was digging out of a 10-inch snowfall.

Safe-cracker Given Prison Release

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Parole Board yesterday released convicted safe-cracker Jack Barg to the custody of Sheriff Carl Campbell of St. Francis County. The release was on the condition that Barg not leave St. Francis County during the remaining six years of his reduced sentence.

Barg and two other men were found guilty in Mississippi County of burglarizing a safe at Elowah in 1949. Each was sentenced to 22 years.

Barg in 1954 received a commutation to 12 years from former Gov. Francis Cherry and was paroled. Mississippi County officials protested as they did when Lt. Gov. Nathan Gordon reduced the sentences of Barg's accomplices, who also were paroled.

Barg was returned to the penitentiary a year ago as a parole violator. Recently he received a month's medical furlough, but Gov. Orval Faubus refused to extend the leave.

Parole Board Chairman Loid Sadler said Barg was suffering from chronic ailments which weren't responding to treatment available at the prison farm.

Sheriff Campbell and St. Francis County Judge M. D. Clark appeared before the Parole Board yesterday in behalf of Barg.

The board also paroled 50 other convicts and recommended executive clemency for eight others.

Revival at Lonoke

Christians today, as always and everywhere, acknowledge their dependence upon God for their lives. Martin Luther, the great reformer, described how direct are the means of communication between God and His children, when he said, "Our dear Lord speaks to us through His Holy Word." Inspiration Hour

Bible Quiz

Beginning this week and every week the Bible questions that will be asked by the Reverend C. S. Stearns, Director of the Inspirational Hour will be published in the paper in order that the young people may study their Bibles for the correct answers.

The panel of young people that have been participating for the last two months and will continue through the month of May are: George Hamilton, Will Rutherford, James McDonald, Joyce Criner, Ozare Lowe, John Henry Hendrix.

The Bible questions to be asked Saturday night are to be taken from the Books of the Old Testament: Genesis, Exodus, and Joshua

The questions are as follows:

1. What is the main reason why Parash led the Israelites out of bondage — found in Exodus.

2. What was the name of the two cities destroyed by fire and brimstone? — found in Genesis.

3. What happened to Pharaoh and his host after they pursued the Israelites? — found in Exodus.

4. Who led the Israelites through Jordan? — found in Joshua.

5. What happened to the walls of Jericho? Did they burn up, fall down, remain as they were?

Lemon Blasts Out Homer to Down Chisox

By RIP WATSON

Of The Associated Press

Is this the Year Jim Lemon of the Washington Senators, a minor league whiz and major league bust for six years, finally is going to make it in the big time?

Big Jim, a 6-foot-4 200-pounder, always could hit well in the pre-season training. Once the season started, however, he generally stopped hitting. First Cleveland and then Washington sadly shipped him back to the minors.

But this is a new year for Lemon. He is bruising the ball at a .381 clip, fourth best in the league, and stands fourth in runs batted in with 13.

Manager Marty Marion of the Chicago White Sox apparently thought it was the "old" Jim Lemon his team was meeting last night. Marty ordered Roy Sievers passed with a two-on, first-base open situation in the seventh inning of a 4-4 ball game.

What happened? Lemon blasted a 475-foot home run that knocked the White Sox right out of first place in the American League.

The 7-4 defeat suffered by Chicago enabled the New York Yankees to take over first even through the New Yorkers themselves dropped an 8-7 decision to Kansas City. The Yanks had been ahead on games won and lost right along, but Chicago previously had enjoyed a better percentage because of playing fewer games.

Cleveland which whipped Baltimore 7-1 behind Mike Garcia's six-hit pitching, still trails Chicago

PTA News

The Adult Talent Program presented Monday night by the Yerger-Shover Street PTA was very successful, and the audience showed by their applause that it was a very enjoyable one.

Some of the talented persons who appeared on this program were:

Mrs. Amy Johnson, Mrs. Louise Hicks, Mrs. Helen Davis, Mrs. Margaret N. Williams, Mrs. Doris D. Kerns.

Those ladies appeared in a beautiful dress revue and presented a novelty song, "Why Do Fools Fall in Love."

The following men appeared in vocal solos:

W. V. Rutherford, Charlie English, C. Carmichael, Fred Scott.

These men exhibited great talent. The Shover Street Elementary School presented a skit: "A Mock PTA." The High School was represented by the Moonlighters, a newly organized group from the NFA Club. Mrs. Alva Hyatt and Mrs. Nathaniel Deloney gave excellent readings. Many people were heard to say that they wish this type of program would be made an annual affair.

After the program the lucky ticket for the "Friendship" quilt was drawn. Mrs. Mary Carrigan was the happy winner. She expressed her thanks to all who participated, making it possible for her to win the beautiful quilt for 10c.

The PTA will meet in regular meeting Monday night May 7, at 7:30 p. m. for the purpose of electing officers for the next school term. Come out and help elect the officers who will make our PTA the best in Arkansas.

Two Hempstead County 4-H Clubs win state honors. These clubs are the Douglas 4-H Club in McNab and Lincoln 4-H Club in Washington. These clubs entered the "Keep Arkansas Green" Contest and did an outstanding piece of work, stated C. B. Smith, Assistant County Agent.

Youngsters Lead in the Colonial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Three of golf's rising young men—Dwight Finsterwald, Paul Harney and Peter Thompson—led the $25,000 Colonial Invitation tournament into its second round today but three members of the old guard were making threatening gestures.

Finsterwald, who plays out of Bedford Heights, O.; Harney, from Boston, Mass., and Thompson, the 26-year-old British Open champion from Melbourne, Australia, shot 1-under-par 69's yesterday to take the first round lead.

One stroke back were three noted shotmakers from Texas—Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Tommy Bolt.

All three of the leaders are 26 years old and Finsterwald and Thompson both have been consistent winners. Harney, less than two years on the PGA tour, has yet to take a major tournament. He did win the Egyptian match play championship last month, receiving $1,200 for it.

Hogan is one of the favorites but pre-tournament choice for first money was Cary Middlecott of Dallas. But Middlecott had to be satisfied with a 73.
